

Russian Views About Armenia.

We print on another page this morning an interesting Commercial Cable despatch from the HERALD'S correspondent in St. Petersburg giving views of the present troubles in Armenia from Russian public and official sources. No European Power has such a thorough knowledge of the situation in Asia Minor as Russia has, and the accepted theory there is that fighting has undoubtedly taken place; in fact, that there has been a rebellion, brought about by the machinations of the Armenian Revolutionary Committee in London, which seeks to restore the ancient kingdom of Armenia.
