NO AMERICANS WERE INJURED.

But Turks at Tarsus Assaulted the Cook Employed by Professor Christie.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Acting Secretary McAdoo to-day received a note from Mavroyeni Bey, the Turkish Minister to the United States, saying that the Turkish Government has informed him that a thorough investigation had been made of alleged outrages on Americans at Tarsus. The result of these investigations, he wrote, was to the effect that the cook in the family of Professor Christie, of St. Paul's Institute, at Tarsus, had been assaulted by native Turks, and that no Americans were concerned in the matter nor injured. Mavroyeni Bey also stated that the Turkish offenders would be tried and punished.

The State Department expects to receive information in the same affair from United States officials in Turkey, as Minister Terrell advised the department some time ago that he had taken steps to have the matter investigated.

Admiral Kirkland has informed the Navy Department that it would be very dangerous, owing to cholera, for the Marblehead, now in the Mediterranean, to touch at certain points suggested in the instructions just sent directing an investigation of the Tarsus and other alleged outrages.
