

The Truth About Armenia.

A Commercial Cable despatch from Paris states that the Figaro says that, while there is no doubt that there were massacres in Armenia and that certain Turkish officials were negligent, there is also no doubt but that the whole affair has been greatly exaggerated. The Turkish government is showing a disposition to accede to the wishes of the European Powers, and our Paris contemporary is satisfied that the Armenian question will soon cease to exist. This view of the so-called atrocities is precisely the one the HERALD took from the very first.
