

Armenian-American Released.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 14.—An Armenian named Muradian, a naturalized citizen of the United States, was arrested upon his arrival here on suspicion of being connected with a revolutionary movement. Alexander W. Terrell, United States Minister to Turkey, has obtained the release of Muradian upon the condition that he be expelled from Turkey.

---

SHOT AN ARMENIAN DEAD.

---

"Big Jim" Taylor Defends His House Against Five Murderous Invaders.

(Special to The World.)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 14. — 'Big Jim' Taylor, proprietor of the Ironsides, a road house in Burrillville, shot and killed an Armenian named Sumpal Hintian last midnight. Four countrymen of the victim were put to flight after a bloody fight. They had attacked the road house with the intention of killing the proprietor's wife and an inmate named Maggie McNulty.

The McNulty girl belonged in Attleboro, Mass. She had formerly lived with Paul Thompson, an Armenian, who keeps a road-house in North Main street. Leaving him after a quarrel she returned to find that he had transferred his affections to another woman.

To-day Maggie McNulty and Mrs. Taylor went to Thompson's house for liquid refreshments. Miss McNulty proposed to remain in the house and take her old position, but her successor objected and became so belligerent that the two visitors retreated. Five Armenians in the house, aroused by the affront to their comrade's friend, determined to follow Miss McNulty and kill her, and also Mrs. Taylor.

The five went to Taylor's house, and, after being served with drinks, drew revolvers and knives and demanded that Taylor produce the two women. Taylor defied them, and a rough and tumble fight followed, the entire Taylor household joining in.

Foremost in the ranks of the defenders was Maggie McNulty, with a big armchair, showering blows on the heads of the men who had come twenty miles to slay her, and the four Armenians were soon in retreat.