Armenians at Peace.

Peace reigns in the camp of the politically inclined Armenians of the city. A meeting of both parties was held in the hall, 29 Exchange place, last evening. A religious meeting was held in Slade Hall on Eddy street in the morning. It was attended by 250 Armenians, and was addressed by Rev. Maghakia Deroonian of Worcester.

The hall was crowded in the evening. It was decided by the leaders of the political parties several days ago that their wranglings should be with words instead of clubs and knives. The ratification meeting held at that time was sparsely attended, and the meeting last evening was a continuation of it. The speakers were Rev. Mr. Deroonian of Worcester, K. Chitjian of Boston, and H. Sargavakian, Armenian minister to Providence.