

XIMENES IS SHOWN UP.

His Denial of Atrocities in Armenia Brings Out His Bent for Romancing.

RUSSIA MAY BE GIVEN FREE HAND.

English Liberal Organ Hints that No Power Would Protect the Turk from the Czar's Wrath.

TIM HEALY'S REVOLT IS NOT SERIOUS.

A New York Woman, Who Claims to Be Queen of Ireland, Promises to Make McCarthy Her First Premier.

(Copyright, 1895, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World.)

(Special Cable Despatch to The World.)

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Paris edition of the Herald printed with unusual prominence yesterday a communication from one Senor Ximenes denying the fact of Armenian atrocities. Editorially the Herald said:

"All the egregious nonsense and exaggeration fabricated under the name of Armenian atrocities has at last been effectually disposed of by the narrative of an eye-witness, Senor Ximenes, a Spaniard of scientific attainments and a member of the Royal Geographical Society, who has just returned from the scene of the much-magnified disorders, and emphatically denounces as absolute fabrications the horrible details of monstrosities that have been so wantonly and designedly spread about in England and America. 'In fact,' says Senor Ximenes, 'in Armenia itself the Armenian question does not exist.' Now that the truth is at last coming out, we hope that the eyes of the English and American dupes of the wily Armenian wire-pullers and agitators will be opened."

XIMENES HAS A RECORD.

Concerning this Senor Ximenes Mr. S. E. Wheeler, the well-known English writer on Eastern questions, publishes the following letter in the St. James's Gazette:

"It would be a relief, no doubt, as you observe to-day, to get impartial evidence from Armenia, but the Spanish traveller Senor Ximenes is scarcely a credible witness. Not long ago this gentleman gave a circumstantial and full-flavored account of his journey to the Pamirs. He also wrote to an English politician offering to impart important information about the state of affairs in that region. He made inquiries and found that Senor Ximenes had never been to the Pamirs at all and that his journey was an invention. A few other personal details were elicited, but in regard to these I should prefer to say nothing except that they showed Senor Ximenes to be gifted with an imaginative faculty of rare dimensions."

The Speaker vouches for its Constantinople correspondent—whose report of the atrocities were cabled to The World yesterday—as "writing with knowledge and authority not inferior to that of the British Ambassador at the Porte."

RUSSIA MAY CHASTISE TURKEY.

The editor of the Speaker, Sir Wemyss Reed, is recognized as more nearly the spokesman of the Liberal Government than any one else on the daily or weekly press, and the following language in the same editorial has made a decided sensation to-day:

"No one will dare to stay the armies of Russia if they should advance for the purpose of putting an end to the reign of terror that in this age is execrable and intolerable. Our Ambassador at Constantinople has, we trust, received full instructions upon this point, and has already made it clear to the Turkish Government that not a finger will be raised either by England or by any other power if, through their own obstinacy and their malignant hatred of the Christian population, the Turks should incur the just and summary vengeance of the Czar."